

Notoriously private Apple has taken yet one more small step to keeping its secrets in house. The Cupertino company came before the planning commission Dec. 9 to request that an easement near its employee-only cafeteria be removed.

read full article